Open toilets on the property of the Rev. James H. Bennett, North Washington street, were condemned Tuesday night in a report filed with the city council by Dr. J. H. Weaver, city health physician.

The council, taking action on the report, ordered City Clerk T. R. Bill-ingsley to write the City Board of Health, asking that the board make an investigation as to sanitary conditions and to bring back the report in the form of a resolution at the next meeting of the council.

The council ordered another round up of automobile owners operating in the city without license tags.
Chief of Police Ridgill was ordered to file information against the offenders and bring them into municipal court.

Persons who wish to escape embarassment of appearing in court may still obtain license at the office of the city treasurer with payment of the regular fee of $2.50 plus the penalty of $2.50.

Acts to Change State Laws Filed

Six Proposals Are Offered as Deadline Passes for Action

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Expiration Wednesday of time for publication of petitions initiating acts and constitutional amendments found six such proposals before the Arkansas electorate.

Secretary of State Ed F. McDonald said the petitions must be filed in his office by July 3 together with proof of publication of the text of the proposed measures "in some paper of general circulation" at least 30 days before that date.

If the petitions filed on that date contain the required number of signatures, the proposed measures will be placed on the ballot for the general election in November.

Petitions published and now being circulated are:

Homestead exemption, up to $1000 assessed valuation, state tax only.
(Amendment.)

To prohibit the legislature from levying or increasing any taxes without approval of the voters. (Amendment.)

Reapportionment of representation in the legislature, to be made by special board following each federal census.
(Initiated act.)

To provide for free textbooks in the first eight grades of public schools.
(Initiated act.)

Revision of the state criminal code.
(Initiated act.)

A proposed constitutional amendment to authorize prosecution by indictment as well as by grand jury indictment and to authorize the legislature to fix the salaries of prosecuting attorneys, was referred to the people by the 1935 legislature and will be on the November ballot.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Byrns, Funeral Friday

Noted Democratic Leader and Speaker of House, Succumbs

DEATH IS MOURNED

President Roosevelt to Accompany Body to Tennessee

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A state funeral in the house chamber Friday for Speaker Joseph Wellington Byrns, cut down at the height of his career by a sudden heart attack and cerebral hemorrhage, was planned Thursday by grief-stricken congressional leaders.

President Roosevelt planned to attend the funeral here and then accompany the funeral train to Tennessee.

The chamber which Byrns guided through history making times met briefly Friday morning and elected William B. Bankhead of Alabama to take his place.

The president's secretary said that the trip to Texas would be made but the starting time would probably be moved up.

Plans of the president between burial services and the first speaking stop of his western trip at Little Rock June 10, was held in abeyance.

The senate Friday called a halt in the tax program debate. Leaders said the senate would adjourn until after the funeral hour.

Expressions of shock and grief at the speaker's passing were heard throughout the capital.

Is Stricken Suddenly
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Joseph Wellington Byrns, 56, speaker of the House of Representatives, died at 12:15 a. m. E. S. T. Thursday from a heart attack followed by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Dr. George W. Calver, capital physician, announced the death of the speaker.

"Speaker Byrns suffered a heart attack at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday afternoon," the physician said. "At 11 p. m., he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and at 12:15 a. m., he died."

Death occurred in the speaker's apartment in the Mayflower hotel.
The White House was informed immediately, and the news relayed to other officials.

No Sign of Illness
The speaker was at his accustomed post in the House Wednesday. He showed no signs of illness, nor did those close to him report any inkling that he was ill.

He returned to his apartment in mid-afternoon, shortly after he was decided to adjourn the House then out of respect to Representative A. Platt Andrew, Massachusetts Republican, who died in his home state Tuesday night.

Byrns, himself, followed in sudden death the passing of his predecessor, Dr. Calver said that Dr. E. M. Ellison, was called soon after his "cerebral accident" late Wednesday afternoon.

Col. Arthur M. Whaley of the Army Medical Corps, personal friend of the speaker, arrived shortly after.

Whaley said Byrns appeared to rally from the first attack and apparently was recovering rapidly when he and Calver left the speaker's apartment about 9:30 p. m. Byrns, he said, was asleep.

Family Present
Whaley, Calver and Representative McIntyre (Dem., Tenn.) in addition to members of the speaker's family were with Byrns when he died. Members of the family present were the speaker's wife and his two brothers, M. J. Byrns of Washington, and John Byrns of Cincinnati, as well as Mrs. M. J. Byrns.

Calver said the speaker had suffered from a "bad heart condition" for several years as a result of a severe attack of influenza, and that the cerebral "accident" might have been aggravated by this condition.

Strain Is Believed Byrns, a Tennessean, who had a long career in congress, had been active almost up to the last in trying to clear up pending legislation and adjourn congress by this week-end.

Friends believe the strain of this task may have been at least partly responsible for his sudden passing.

His death was a great loss to the country, many friends, was considered a master parliamentarian, adept at straightening out snarls and keeping House tempers within bounds. His death cast prospects for adjournment of this week into an uncertain state.

The Roosevelt administration had counted heavily upon him, as often in the past, to speed its program through.
Senator Robinson in Tribute Senator Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader, said:

"His death comes as a great sur-

Canada's 'Everest' Awaits Invasion

Thirteen times in 50 years has this 400 feet of jagged, snow-encrusted rock—highest summit of 13,260-foot Mount Waddington in British Columbia—defied attempts to scale its heights. In July, a group of 12 intrepid mountain-climbers, chosen from all Canadian climbers, will make a new effort to scale this lofty spire of stone, photographed from a lower neighboring peak. In the new sortie on Mount Waddington, located 200 miles north of Vancouver, the Sierra Club of San Francisco, which fully strove to conquer it last year, may be represented.

Irish Potatoes Bring Good Price

Growers in This Section Realize More Money
From Yield

Hempstead county farmers are receiving considerable money this year from a source that has heretofore meant very little to them from the standpoint of being a cash crop.

Irish potatoes, generally planted only in quantities sufficient to supply family needs, were this year planted in considerable acreages, and the apparent size of the crop indicate that the potatoes will yield a considerable amount of money.

Producers are being paid $2.25 per 100 pounds this week, with indications that the market will hold due to the shortage of the crop in other states.

Lindbergh Will Recover $14,000

Is Part of Loot Tossed Over Cemetery Wall to Hauptmann

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Attorney General David T. Wilentz said Wednesday $14,000 of the Lindbergh ransom bills recovered with Bruno Richard Hauptmann's arrest would be returned shortly to Col. Charles A.
Lindbergh.

Wilentz said the decision to return the money to Lindbergh was made recently at a conference in New York attended by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; New York police officials, Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police superintendent and himself.

The money is now in a safe deposit box in a Trenton bank. Word was awaited from Colonel Lindbergh, Wil-entz said, as to the disposal of the money.

Public Debt Seen as 34 Billions by July

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Gauging the amount to be paid on the bonds this month, Treasury experts estimated the fiscal year would close June 30 with the public debt a few millions short of $34,000,000,000.

They figured that of 3,500,000 veterans eligible for the bonus, some 2-500,000 would receive their checks and bonds during the last two weeks of June, involving an outlay of $1,700-000,000. This would be reflected also in the deficit.

They declined to hazard any opinions as to what the latter figure might be. However, at the close of business June 1, it stood at $2,969,961,000. Adding the $1,700,000,000 to that figure produced a sum of $3,669,961,000. This would be increased by the amount that June expenditures exceeded June revenues.

Hempstead Is Paid $6,479.11 by Frisco

30 Per Cent of Total Tax Bill Goes for School Purposes

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—More than 30 per cent of the approximately three million dollars paid by the Frisco Railway in taxes for 1935 went for school taxes, it was announced here Thursday.

The railroad paid a total of $3,009-737.44 in taxes to the nine states which it serves. Of this sum, $1,975,569.81

ed to $234,414.31; county taxes, $635-678.84; road taxes, $485,821.87; city taxes, $297,787.01, and special taxes, $158,535.60.

Of the total tax payment, $306,871.62 went to the State of Arkansas. It was distributed over 19 counties and 60 cities and was applied as follows:

stead county was paid $801.88 for its

Sebastian County Bar Association Flays J. D. Head

Term Probe of Griffin Smith's Eligibility
"Outrageous"

ASKS DROP MATTER

Charges Democratic Committee Has No Power to Pass on Case

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—The Sebastian County Bar Association addressed a resolution to Chairman J. D.
Head of the state democratic committee Wednesday denouncing as "outrageous and an insult" action of the party chairman in calling a meeting of the committee at Little Rock Saturday to consider qualifications of Griffin Smith as chief justice of the state supreme court.

Meeting in a called session, the bar association declared that the state committee had no power to pass on qualifications of any candidate for office and called upon the state committee and the men and women of Arkansas "to stop once and for all such highhanded and unwarranted proceedings."

The resolution, offered by J. Seab Holt, was adopted unanimously.

"There is a general demand of the Democratic voters of this commonwealth that they be allowed the privilege to choose whom they desire to serve them in all elective offices," the resolution stated.

"In view of many decisions of the supreme court there can be no review in the court against such action of the committee, and should it assume this power, the Democratic voters would have to submit to their dictation or scratch the ticket."

Drouth Serious Threat to Cotton

Surplus Problem Faces Settlement Unless Rains Received

ATLANTA.—(AP)—Drouth threatened Wednesday to help settle the cotton surplus problem the hard way.

Commission house buyers said a record 50-day dry spell in the southeast might accomplish what formal crop curtailment programs had failed to do—create normal trade channels for approximately three and one-half million bales held by the government.

That is the average annual production of the four states hardest hit by the drouth—Alabama, Georgia, and the Carolinas.

Weather-beaten farmers hoped, however, that rains would come soon to restore life to their dusty fields.

Metereologists agreed that abundant moisture within the next few days would save much of the cotton and other crops of tobacco, corn, hay, fruits and truck.

While the drouth went into its eighth week, southern congressmen launched a movement in Washington to obtain quick federal aid for stricken farmers.

The representatives called together by Representative Ulmer of South Carolina, decided to obtain specific information and present their plea to Secretary Wallace.

Metereologist George W. Minding of Atlanta said complete crop failure was indicated in some counties of Central Georgia, without helpful rain since early April.

"There is still no rain in sight," said Minding.

tension service of the Georgia depart-

Bailey Will Not Seek Senate Post

If Elected Governor in August Will Run for Second Term

AUGUSTA, Ark.—(AP)—Governor-elect Carl E. Bailey told Woodruff county friends Wednesday night that he would not oppose Mrs.
Hattie W. Caraway of Jonesboro when she runs for re-election in 1938.

Bailey, speaking after friends of his former home county presented him with a new automobile for use in his campaign for governor, assured them that "two years hence I expect to come before you again, seeking a second term as governor." Presentation of the car took place in front of a theater.

"I want to emphasize to you, my 'home folks,' that I have in mind a program of progressive improvement for Arkansas which I hope to be able to accomplish in four years," Bailey said.

"The late Senator T. H. Caraway was my personal and political friend.
We were born in the same county.
Nevertheless, an effort has been made to put me in the light of being at cross purposes with his worthy successor. That kind of political strategy will fail because I do not hesitate to say that I will not oppose Mrs. Caraway for re-election."

The campaign car was presented on behalf of Woodruff county residents by Wade Sale, president of the Bank of Augusta and the school board, who was one of the owners of the White River Hardware company when when Bailey was an auditor for the concern.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Addition of foods of the baby's diet depends on the supply of breast milk, but it is customary nowadays to add foods somewhat earlier than was done formerly. By the seventh or eighth month, however, there is hardly a baby that is not getting extra nourishment from sources other than the breast.

Additional foods include such substances as pureed, or sieved, vegetables, cereals, scraped meats, liver, and egg. These substances should be added one at a time to determine the baby's reaction to each new food. Usually it takes two or three days to find out whether a change in the diet is beneficial.

Orange juice may be given during the first month. Two tablespoons, mixed with an equal quantity of water, may be given once or twice daily. When the baby is 3 months old, it may have the juice of one-half orange daily, and after that, the juice of a whole orange every day. Occasionally tomato or other fruit juices may be substituted for the orange juice.

Cod liver oil should be started early in infancy, beginning with a half-teaspoonful each day and gradually increasing the dose until the baby is getting one teaspoonful two or three times a day. This should provide enough vitamin D to make certain of preventing rickets in a normal baby.

Many doctors believe that a baby should have extra iron early in infancy.

It is customary to begin the cereals when the baby is 6 or 7 months old. The new strained or sieved vegetables and fruits make it possible to begin feeding the child vegetables much earlier than was formerly possible. Egg yolk also may be given at an exceedingly early age, since it is the source of many essential food substances.

Do not change the baby's food every time it has a symptom. When the child seems to be suffering with a digestive disturbance, a much better rule is to stop all food at once and call a doctor.

Whether a baby should be forced to eat certain foods if it does not like them is, even yet, a matter of considerable debate among experts. There are two schools of thought. One group of psychologists insists that children should be taught to eat everything.

Allergists—those specializing in the study of sensitivities—assert, however, that persistent refusal of any single food indicates the child may have some sensitivity to that food and is better off without it.

Since many of the foods which contain vitamins and mineral salts in profusion are not necessarily sweet or appetizing, and since children are likely to eye them askance, the mother should make certain that the child is really sensitive to a food before she accepts the idea that sensitivity is responsible.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

A mother wrote to me proudly, "Our three children have never been separated, not for a single day, and I am sure you will approve of our system because you say that children are so good for each other."

I studied over that letter and then applied it to some other families I knew. Whether the children seldom get away from each other because they can't, and especially to one group where the little boy, the oldest, began to revert. He had promised brilliance, then suddenly he became quiet and listless. The two younger children, a girl and a boy-baby became the gods of the house and from that time on he took a back seat. He stopped the rapid development, interrupted by his first few years.

His parents had not noticed the change at first, then one day the little fellow spoke to me about it.

Circumscribed by Others
"I can't imagine what has come over Harry," she said. "He has no life in him at all. He doesn't seem to be interested in anything much any more. Sometimes I think he is not well."

I asked a few questions, and gradually the picture was unfolded. It was pretty sure that Harry suffered from too much family.

Later I asked her if there was anyone her son could visit for a while. She didn't like to send him away when he wasn't eating and was losing weight, she said. Also he cried a good bit these days and seemed to want her. However, there was an aunt who asked to have Harry. His mother had not approved of him going because he mustn't learn to be selfish and expect to be chosen before the others who were too little yet to be visiting on their own. When they were old enough, all three could go.

Preparation for Listlessness
"Do you know," I commented, "I believe you are wrong about that. I'd try Harry on a visit by himself and see what it does for him. In your family life, the younger children have needed your time and attention. They get most of the notice, as babies will, and although I wouldn't call it jealousy, at the same time Harry may have a feeling that he is not so very important any more."

"Try him where he doesn't feel any 'pull-back' where he can be free to be himself and not always one of a bunch. Later I would let the others have the same chance once in a while. All children must feel the same as grown-ups, that it is good to get away to be one's own self somewhere in the world."

So the boy went to his aunt. He ate and slept and was a different child altogether. A month did so much for his peace of soul, it helped his health. And so, although I do think that families are good for each other, I must confess that individually they need vacation as well when it is possible to have it so. If not for a month, perhaps for a day now and then. A trip to town, for instance, can include one child at a time.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

The strange romance of Galapagos—a deeply tragic story, for all its Sunday magazine overtones—is described by one of the principal actors, Dore Strauch, in "Satan Came to Eden" (Harper, $3.00).

Dore Strauch was the young wife of a middle-aged German schoolmaster. She met Dr. Ritter, physician and dentist, found in him her soul mate, and fled with him to an uninhabited island of the Galapagos group. There the two built a house, planted a garden, and settled down to forget the world.

But the world wouldn't let them forget it. It read fantastic stories about them and they were rather fantastic couple—high-minded, utterly humorless, and as impractical as two school children—and sent some very odd people to share their island Eden.

The oddest of these was a female who said she was the Baroness Wagner Bousquet, who brought three adoring men with her and proceeded to call herself the empress of Galapagos. She seems to have been a complete hell cat, and after she had utterly ruined the island's peace she mysteriously disappeared.

Hollywood

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD.—Short takes: It isn't true, of course, but there are some who swear that a certain secretary quit her job because she came back early from lunch one day and found the boss kissing his wife.

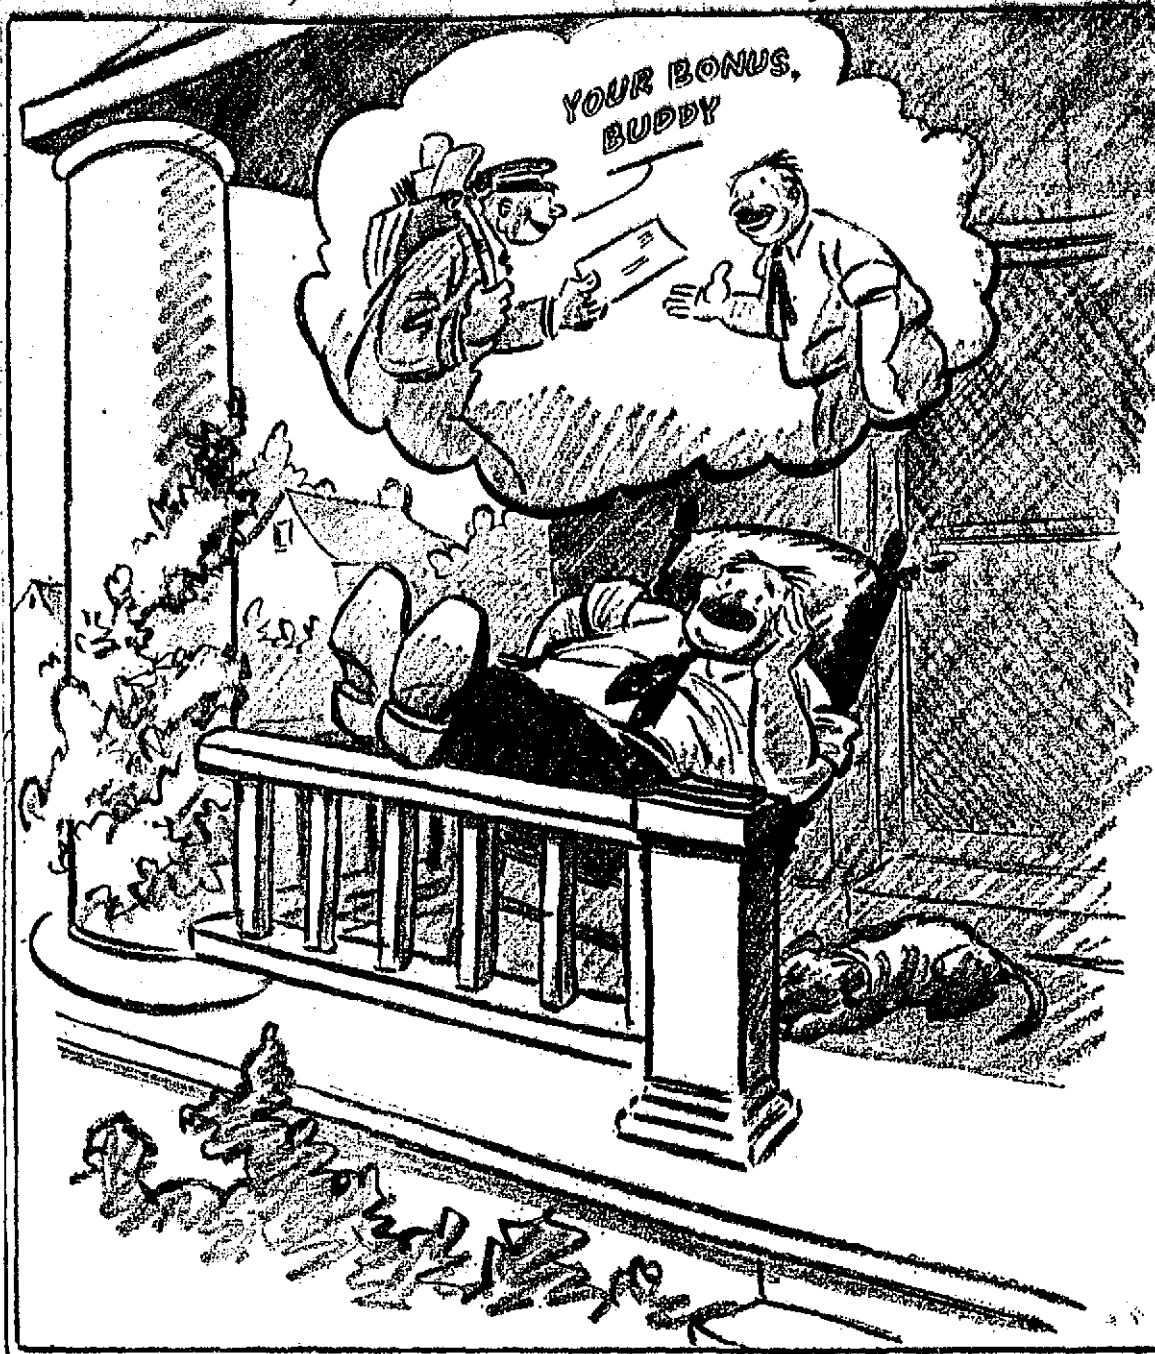

It is said that this so confused the big executive that, the next time his wife sat on his lap, he began dictating a letter.

Indian actors have been suffering no end of humiliation lately. When a company went on location to film "The Last of the Mohicans," a Boy Scout was sent along to teach them how to build fires by twirling sticks. Another location party hired some baroness was murdered, and leaves you feeling that it was a very good job, too.

At any rate, the Strauch-Ritter idyll was spoiled. Their painfully idealistic effort to found a Pacific paradise limped along a while longer, and then the doctor died of disease. Fraulein Ritter regrettably returned to Germany. She gives us, now, this strange history of a romance which would sound ridiculous if it were not so tragic.

Soon now your favorite screen leads and gals will be yelling "Tallyho!" all over the hills. Fox hunting is almost the only sport never before tried here, but it will be introduced by Al Davis, a horsey easterner. He has sent to England for hounds, and is wondering what to do about foxes. May use character extras.

New slang for "having an operation"—"in the cutting room." And speaking of operations, Clark Gable's going to lose his mustache, after all. They're figuring on Claudette Colbert for Joan of Arc with a studio-built story. This may surprise Katharine Hepburn and Bernard Shaw, for Miss Hepburn often has been mentioned for Shaw's "St. John." Miss Colbert, now committed exclusively to costume pictures, first will star in "Maid of Salem"—all about witchcraft days and the career of Cotton Mather.

Historic Resurrection
More American history... M-G-M is whipping up a biographical piece about George and Martha Wash-ton, maybe to beat Columbia's "Valley Forge." The latter studio has owned the Maxwell Anderson play ever since the Theater Guild produced it in New York, but has been dallying around trying to cast it. M-G-M also has ordered an opus on Benjamin Franklin.

Michael Curtiz, affluent director, bought himself a fancy foreign car, drove it for five months and only the other day got it into high gear. Seems the thing had four forward speeds, but nobody told him.

Hollywood's over-developed sense of humor has had Paramount and RKO merging for years. Only a wall separated the two studios; that, and a lot

Never having ridden a horse in his life, Joe E. Brown is the selection for a picture to be called "Polo Joe." ## State Crops Are in Good Condition

Need for Rain Is Spotted Throughout Arkansas, Report Says

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Extension Director C. C. Randall reported Wednesday that field crops in Arkansas generally are in good condition although they are beginning to show need of rain.

His statement followed a weekly report by the federal weather bureau that rainfall over most of the state has been much less than normal since the first of the year but it has been distributed sufficiently that there has been no serious drought except in a few localities.

Randall said the need for rain is spotted throughout the state. Cotton in the eastern portion is in excellent condition, he reported. Corn and hay crops in that section also are good but are beginning to show need of rain. Late planted cotton has not come to a stand at all in the north central section of the state and will not come up until it rains. Farmers of this area report need of rain to finish planting corn. Corn already up also badly is in need of moisture.

The weather bureau report said soil is becoming very dry in some sections, and that rain would be very beneficial. Saline county crops especially are in need of precipitation.

and his renomination and re-election, had he lived, would have been foregone conclusions.

Syrns started his political career in the Tennessee House of Representatives, serving three terms there from 1895 to 1900.

He was speaker his last term, approximately 35 years before he occupied a similar position in the national House of Representatives. In 1901 he was elected to the state senate where he served one term.

Appeared to Italy

Informal and friendly, Byrns popularly was credited with never forgetting a name or face. His informality went with him to Washington. When he became chairman of the House Appropriations Committee in 1931, he announced that "there is no place for politics in my committee. I want to run it in a folksy way."

Formal social life did not appeal to him, either here or in Washington, and he and Mrs. Byrns took little part in social affairs on either city. But informal gatherings, particularly with young people, whom he liked and understood, gave him a great amount of pleasure.

Chose Law as Profession

Byrns decided early in life that he wanted to be a lawyer. "Old Judge John W. Judd, later appointed to the Territorial Supreme Court of Utah, was a friend of my father," he once told interviewers in explaining his choice.

"He used to come to our house and talk, for hours at a time. I would listen. And I was so impressed that I decided, early that I wanted to be a lawyer."

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been a relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days; Then heaven tries earth if it be in tune, And over it softly her warm ear lays; Whether we look or whether we listen, We hear life murmur or see it glisten; Every cloud feels a stir of might; An instinct within it that reaches and towers, And groping blindly above it for light, Climbs to a soul in grass and flowers; The flush of life may well be seen Thrilling back over hills and valleys; The cowslip starts in meadows green, The buttercup catches the sun in its chalice, And there's never a leaf nor a blade To mean To be some happy creature's palace.—Selected.

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Detectives sought to learn Wednesday night whether a "White Legion" fomented a mob attack on William Haines, former film star, and his friend, Jimmy Shields, who were driven out of the little seaside community of El Porto Beach Sunday.

Developments were: 1. Three women asked complaints against Haines and "John Doe," alleging that the six-year-old son of one of them had been taken to Haines' home and subjected to moral mistreatment.

Ex-Actor in Denial 2. Haines denied that such an act took place, and described the attack "an irresponsible act of drunken hoodlums."

Justice A. F. Monroe of Inglewood declined to issue a complaint after an interview with the women. He told them the evidence is insufficient and advised them to wait until detectives have completed their investigation.

Shields Bandage-Covered Bandages still covered Shields' face. Since his virtual retirement from the sick-haired roles he played in the movies, Haines has been operating as an interior decorator and selling antiques. Several well known picture people have had their homes done over by him. He has a fashionable shop in the movie colony.

Haines' Version Given His version of the story was this: "Sometime during our week-end party with several friends on the beach, Jimmy (Shields) met a little boy who appeared clever and friendly."

When Jimmy walked back to my house, the little fellow trotted along, chatting amiably. Jimmy finally gave him six cents and told him to go right home. That was Thursday.

"It's ridiculous to think there was anything wrong done."

"The following Sunday, several men approached us and said: 'We'll give you just one hour to get out of town.' Then, one of them hit Jimmy and knocked him down. I went to help him and somebody hit me."

"They howled and hooted at us and smeared my car with tomatoes and eggs. It was horrible."

Haines said he thought there were about 100 men in the party, and a few women.

Parker Arrested in Wendel Probe

Burlington County Detective Is Held on Kidnaping Charge

NEW YORK — (AP) — District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan announced Wednesday night that Ellis H. Parker, Sr., chief of Detectives in Burlington county, N. J., had been arrested at Mount Holly, N. J., on a charge of kidnaping Paul H. Wendel, former New Jersey lawyer.

The arrest was made shortly before 8 p. m. (EST) by Assistant District Attorney Francis Madden and three Brooklyn detectives as Parker was coming out of the Elks Club.

Three hours before the arrest, Geoghan said, the Burlington county detective who played a leading part in the investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping, was indicted by the Kings county grand jury on a charge of kidnaping and assault.

Madden and the detectives left immediately, he said, with a warrant and a copy of the indictment, which superceded the original indictment naming Ellis Parker Jr., Murray and Harry Blefield, Martin Schlossman and Harry Weiss in the kidnaping.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By J. S. Klein

A QUARTER century after the American Revolution, England entered a European conflict which led her to impress American seamen for her navy. James Madison, one of the framers of the new Constitution, became president in 1809 and tried vainly to settle the issue with England peaceably. But impressment continued, and in 1812 Madison declared war—the first war of the United States since its independence. It lasted two years, and it established American rights on the seas.

Madison was one of Thomas Jefferson's disciples and a leader of the Jeffersonian party. He had been secretary of state under Jefferson for the entire two terms. Thanks to his knowledge of shorthand, the proceedings of the convention of 1787, which framed the Federal Constitution, have been saved for posterity.

In his second term, Madison approved the establishment of a national bank, after having vetoed the measure previously.

When his term ended in 1817, he retired. He died in 1836, at the age of 85. His portrait appears on the $2 stamp, first issued in 1804, then in 1903.
